About this Course

Virginia's forests provide many important resources, including wildlife, recreation, wood products, clean water, and fresh air. Nearly 65 percent of Virginia's forest lands are owned by non-industrial private forest landowners. To ensure that our forests provide benefits to society now and in the future, landowners will need a basic understanding of forest management principles and practices.

Woodland Options for Landowners provides a working knowledge of basic forest and woodland management principles and includes topics such as management planning, obtaining professional assistance, tools to assess your resources, and basic requirements of wildlife. In-depth publications covering pine and hardwood management are included.

This course is a segment of the Forest Landowners Short Course Series.

If you are a person with a disability and desire any assistive devices, services or other accommodations to participate in this activity, please contact Matt Yancey, Rockingham County Extension Office at (540)564-3080/ TDD (800)828-1120, during business hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. to discuss accommodations 5 days prior to the event.

Other Courses in the Series:
Sustainable Timber Harvesting & Marketing: Market and harvest your timber sustainably and profitably, write an effective timber sale contract, and learn the basics of estate planning.

Wildlife Options for Landowners: Find out how to manage for an array of species on your property.

Financial Assistance for Landowners: Provides information on federal and state cost share programs available to landowners.

New* Forest & Farmland Conservation Strategies: Learn about ways to conserve your forest and farmland through conservation easements, purchase of development rights programs, use-value taxation and more.

Woodland Options for Landowners is also available on-line each spring; next offering is March, 2007.
